

Strategic Communicators Collective

The Strategic Communicators Collective is a learning, connection, and collaborative platform for mid-to-senior level communications leaders like you who want to be indispensable strategists for their clients or companies.

Through a mix of training, mentoring, brain trust and vocal empowerment experiences, communications leaders develop an unshakeable sense of confidence and self-trust in their expertise and value so they can become the bold, confident strategists we're all meant to be!

The public relations, marketing and development members currently in the group value the connections they've made with one another and the opportunity to share their successes, challenges, and big ideas in a supportive space.

Here's what you can expect:

- Our Brain Trust Advisory so you can go deep and get support with the challenges you face
- Deep-dive professional development sessions on strategic communications planning
- Vocal empowerment experiences (through my work as a certified Step into Your Moxie® facilitator) using role-play and improv to help you play nice with your inner critic, manage difficult conversations and move people to take action on the issues and ideas important to you
- Live Q&A "Ask Me Anything" sessions to address (or celebrate!) real-world issues
- On-demand learning content you can access at your own pace

Registration for the Strategic Communicators Collective currently opens only once per year. The price is $997. Payment plans are available.

Imagine having the resources to regularly engage and collaborate with me and like-minded peers who just get you, to role-play your most challenging issues, gain greater confidence, and hone the strategic communications superpower you know you have!
